APICe Courses

Teaching activity in APICe is strictly related with the scientific and project activities in APICe. A space for the many courses that APICe people held, typically in the courses of the Alma Mater Studiorum, is essential to understand some of the technical and scientific interests and competences in APICe. This Courses space in the APICe web space is meant to provide a general entry for students and colleagues, and also a teaching tool for professors and tutors in APICe.

Information in the Courses space is intended to be cooperatively generated and maintained by all people involved in any form in the APICe teaching activities, either as producers or as consumers of courses' materials. The resulting information is instead meant to be freely available to anyone with an interest in the technical and scientific areas covered the teaching activities of APICe.
